We were considering running a consolation round on Sunday morning and pushing final rounds to Sunday afternoon but lately the workshop (see below) idea came in and we decided to change our mind. The current format offers extended time (90 minutes) for qualification rounds (flash format) with maximum 30 athletes on a field of play. Those who will not make finals will have a chance to stay for Sunday afternoon to join the routesetters, coaches & athletes workshop (see below).

In each gender 16 best athletes out of max. 60 will advance to the final round.

Workshop

Within the scope of entry fee we will offer the Sunday afternoon workshop. It will be actively led by event routesetters who will be able to explain boulder problems (mainly the final round set). The athletes who didn't compete in the final round will have a chance to climb the final round set of boulders. However the routesetters will be available not only for boulder problems explanation but also for adjusting to lower skill level to give everybody a nice time with afternoon climbing.

The workshop will be an unstructured event so anyone can leave at any time.

The event is financially supported by the Czech Climbing Federation and the city of Prague.
